

Centennial 2013 Plan

Priority No. 1: Fix what we have.

With help from the Governor and Legislature, your State Parks Commission commits to caring for and improving these high-quality state parks and recreation services you enjoy today:

- Stewardship – Safeguarding Washington’s natural, cultural and historical treasures. Remove invasive plant species and noxious weeds and reduce tree risk and fire danger through healthy forest management.
- Enjoyment, health and learning – Provide environmental and cultural education, events and health opportunities for all citizens.
- Public Service – Strengthen public service with valued, skilled and versatile employees, volunteers and partners.
- Facilities – Eliminate backlog of parks maintenance and equipment replacement and improve our well-loved park system with critical renovations, including Puget Sound water quality improvements.
- Partnerships — Engage the public by increasing volunteer and partnership opportunities.
- Financial strategy – Leverage increased general tax support with earned revenue, donations and cost efficiencies for sustaining park operations.

Priority No. 2: Upgrade existing parks, trails and services.

With a blend of public and private dollars, the Commission aims to build capacity and upgrade existing parks, trails and services to meet increased demand in a fast-growing state.

- Upgrade iconic parks and coastal and marine areas.
- Improve facilities and add trail miles for multiple uses along Mountains-to-Sound Greenway and long-distance trails.
- Provide more access to water and services for boaters.
- Improve winter recreation trails and services.
- Add and improve in-park trails for visitors.
- Develop trail connections between state parks, long-distance trails and county and city trail systems.
- More water access and services for boaters
- Protect and restore high-quality habitats and promote native species

Priority No. 3: Add new parks, trails and services and work towards opening new parks.

With a blend of public and private dollars, the Commission works toward adding trails and opening new parks, ensuring a legacy of outdoor resources is available to future generations.

Work toward completing cross-state trails:

- Trails connecting Seattle to Spokane and Tri-cities and Chehalis to South Bend.
- Water trails (Willapa Hills Trail and Columbia and Snake River water trails)

Work toward opening new parks:

- Nisqually-Mashel
- Lake Spokane
- Miller Peninsula
- Cama Beach
- Bottle Beach

Preserve our history for future generations – improve four major historic sites:

- Iron Horse/South CleElum Depot
- Saint Edward Seminary
- Fort Simcoe
- Olmstead Place

Tell the story of the Ice Age floods

- Plan and develop interpretive sites and programs

“100 Connections”: Citizen gifts enhance favorite parks

- Park managers invite groups and communities to help
- Contributions of funding and labor
- Project examples: Playground equipment, interpretive and wildlife viewing features, trails, landscaping and planting, picnic shelters and other buildings.
