

Early explorers

In November of 1805, the Lewis and Clark Expedition traveled across the United States to reach the Pacific Ocean. During their journey, they took notes as they explored the region, documenting different plants, animals and weather patterns.

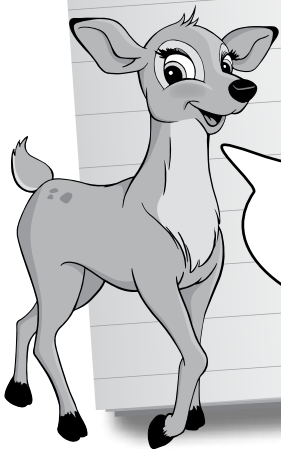

I am exploring _____.

Date:

I see.....

I hear.....

I smell.....

The Lewis and Clark Expedition documented more than 120 new animal species during their travels. Their journals are very important contributions to science!

Creative challenge: Would you enjoy being an early explorer? Why or why not?
